GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS

WHY STUDY GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS?

Studying British politics now is probably more exciting than it's ever been. Widespread constitutional reforms have changed the political map. The establishment of the Parliament in Scotland and the Assemblies in Wales, Northern Ireland and London mean that power is shifting. Also, decisions regarding Britain's membership of the EU mean that debates over sovereignty and co-operation rage long and hard. We now live in a globalised world so it is important to understand how this works and what the benefits and challenges are.

Students will be given the opportunity to engage in a new and exciting subject which will be accessed through a range of teaching and learning methods.

AFTER A-LEVEL GOVERNMENT AND POLITICS?

In recent years our students have gone on to study a variety of courses with a number studying at LSE, Oxford and Cambridge. The range of courses which students have moved on to include politics, history, economics, international relations, American studies, marketing, teaching, law and many more. It is a very versatile subject which can be combined well with both humanities and science A-levels.
